Why I'm Running

I'm running for re-election to the North Carolina Supreme Court, and I'd like to tell you why I believe I've earned your support.

During my six years of service on the North Carolina Court of Appeals and my seven years on the Supreme Court, I've focused on making the fair decision in every case, no matter how difficult it is. I never bring any personal or political bias into the courtroom.

I am the only member of the Court who spent nearly twenty-five years practicing law before serving on the bench, including handling trials and numerous appeals in a wide variety of cases, representing people all over the state. During that time, I appeared regularly in the Court of Appeals, and argued more than fifty times in the state Supreme Court. Except for three years as Assistant Appellate Defender, all of my law practice was in the private sector, where I managed the practice, provided jobs in the community, and made payroll every month.

North Carolinians deserve Justices on their highest Court who bring the kind of extensive experience and commitment to fairness that results in sensible decisions, grounded in the facts and the law. Our courts require no less.
